

LIVING FINISH ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Relevant Finishes: Satin Brass (SB), Polished Brass (BR)

Living Finish products will start their life with minimal marks and variance. With time and regular use, the unique characteristics of each finish will develop as the brass reacts with the environment - with each fitting bearing its own distinctive appearance. Our Polished Brass (BR) and Satin Brass (SB) finishes are made in the UK from unlacquered raw brass and enjoy a rich, layered patina with natural buffing marks and variance from continued use. These marks are a treasured design feature of raw brass fittings and are typically chosen to instill a sense of history and permanence.

These finishes will develop their own individual appearance over time from general handling and use. Overspray from everyday household cleaners and acidic foods commonly contribute to the speed of the ageing process of living finishes. This can be slowed by following a regular cleaning routine, or you can embrace the natural reaction by relaxing your cleaning routine and watch the magic unfold.

The tapware may also have patina marks when you open the box for the first time. To ensure you understand the ageing process and how to maintain and restore your tapware, please visit our website - www.luxebydesign.com.au/shaws-perrin-rowe for more information. No purchase order returns will be accepted for the natural patina process occurring and no warranties are present for the exterior finish of the tapware, as these raw finishes are designed specifically for this effect. Please note, all other expressed warranties relating to the body of the tap and consumable components are still valid.
